Poem by Uncle John

Lookin' toward the future holds a fascination strange, for ambitious human natur' ever thirstin' for a change, — And, though we're doin' well enough as on—our way we prance, we embrace a resky promise every time we get the chance!

Lookin' toward the future holds the element of doubt—jest enough to spur a feller who delights in findin' out,—No—it aint the fact of dyin' that arouses latent dread — it's the likelihood of sufferin' at the cross-roads on ahead—

Lookin' toward the future fer a better, brighter day, we escape the hauntin' memory that would face us t'other way — While there's nothin' quite so certain as a snooze beneath the sod, nobody doubts the future of a pardnership with God!

DRY LAWS—PUBLIC OPINION

THE World Of Tomorrow features in its February edition the prohibition question. The principal article is by Rev. F. Ernest Johnson, research secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, who undertakes an appraisal of prohibition and public opinion. Mr. Johnson is a prohibitionist, but he writes as a gentleman and a scholar, with rare caution and tolerance, and with courteous consideration of the views of his opponents. It is difficult to quote him without injustice, but we cannot refrain from citing these comments:

"Elaborate statistics showing great changes in the death rate and extensive economic improvement, all resulting from prohibition, are altogether premature. It should be evident to any studious person that economic and industrial conditions reflect a variety of influences and that no conclusive results can be arrived at without reference to the business cycle and to war conditions. And as for statistics of alcoholic diseases, drunkenness and crime, some of the evidence has been encouraging, some discouraging. The marked improvement with respect to these social symptoms in 1920 is a recognized and outstanding fact, but it remains to be seen whether the nation will take the whole problem seriously enough to overcome the reaction that has been growing since that time. From the point of view of social statistics the case for prohibition is not yet established and the sooner we recognize that fact the better. Much more research is needed than has yet been undertaken.

"What is in danger of happening, and what has happened in certain sections of the country where the industrial population is large, is the progressive nullification of the prohibition laws. The result is that in these sections of the country there are important population groups which are virtually irreconcilable with reference to a declared public policy. This, it would seem, constitutes the real menace of the present situation. What is the remedy?

"Some of the most active leaders in the citizenship movement which has been carried on during the past year with the avowed purpose of strengthening prohibition, have come to feel that the campaign and mass-meeting methods of bolstering up the enforcement of prohibition and winning support for it in the public mind have very limited usefulness; that the major task is not one of agitation, denunciation or 'dry' propaganda, but one of education, in which all the facts that may be brought to light are candidly faced and every individual is given freedom of expression and a respectful hearing for honest convictions. It is absurd to suppose there are no opponents of prohibition who are thoroughly disinterested and sincere.

"The unexpected seriousness of the illicit liquor traffic which has developed in many parts of the country is of course due to an economic fact, namely, a relatively extensive demand for a commodity whose supply has been drastically curtailed. The possibilities of becoming rich in a short time are so alluring that the greatest dangers are discounted and moral scruples are readily put aside. The difficulties of enforcement and the expense incident thereto, are becoming alarmingly great. The problem long ago ceased to be one of forcibly limiting the activities of a criminal or defiantly anti-social group. The government is rather in the position of seeking to apprehend large numbers of dealers who if they are to be judged by the social standing of their clientele may easily claim a place among the leading tradesmen of the community.

"The problem which prohibition presents is not primarily one of building up a strong agency for the enforcement of law, but rather of moulding a public opinion which is favorable to the law. In the present writer's judgment the serious mistake of the organizations which have been supporting prohibition has been the assumption that there exists a sufficient body of public opinion favorable to prohibition to guarantee its permanence."

WITHOUT COMMENT

THE Press takes from The Covina Citizen the following editorial and reproduces it, without making any analysis of the same. It runs true all the way through the article and is not, in any manner, based on malice:

"You can always judge a town by its newspaper. You can judge the merchants of a town infallibly by the character and volume of their advertising in the local paper. Every live merchant patronizes his local newspaper, not as an object of charity, but as a matter of good business. He knows it helps the town and it helps him. He knows if the newspaper fails the grass will grow on the main street, and the cobwebs in shame will cover with the mantle of silence and oblivion the business houses guilty of crucifying their best friend. There is no creature in the world more despicable than the merchant who fastens himself on a public street like a sponge on a rock, to absorb everything that comes and give out nothing in return. And yet there are thousands of these leeches absorbing the trade drawn to the town by the enterprise of the newspaper and the other merchants, never spending a dollar in legitimate endeavor to win success by deserving it. This class of merchants is giving aid and comfort to the mail order houses who are gradually wiping them off the mercantile map."

WHAT THEY READ

IT is interesting to note the literary tastes of the inmates of Folsom prison as reported by the county librarian at Sacramento. "Best sellers," she says, "are not in demand by the men. Only fiction and novels dealing with deep problems are called for, but even these are not as popular as work of philosophy, psychology, the sciences, architecture, short story writing and journalism. Among the favorites, too, are works of travel." There is indeed a wealth of pathos in this—in the wanderlust which men marooned for years, perhaps for the balance of their lives, can never satisfy save by proxy.

Had the love of reading been instilled in them in their earlier years who knows but that the majority of these men would now be free citizens instead of derelicts under lock and key?

CARELESS DRIVER IS CAUSE OF BAD WRECK

Several People Injured In Crash On Sunday Near Hopland

A big Packard car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Warfield and Col. and Mrs. F. Tyman, prominent residents of Healdsburg, was wrecked Sunday morning near Rose Knoll ranch, three miles south of Hopland. Mr. Warfield, who is president of the First National Bank at Healdsburg, was driving, and according to the other occupants of the car was making about 15 miles an hour when a small gray machine, whose driver is unknown, came around the curve at 40 miles an hour and crashed with terrific force, into the heavier machine.

Occupants Badly Hurt.

The impact threw Mr. and Mrs. Warfield through the windshield, their bodies tearing away the steering gear as they were hurled through the air. Both suffered severe lacerations and body bruises. Mrs. Tyman also sustained cuts and bruises and had a tooth broken out.

Defied The Victims.

The unknown driver was also injured. The party was attended by Dr. J. H. Seawell, of Santa Rosa, who came along a few minutes after the accident. According to eye-witnesses the man said to be responsible for the accident defied the occupants of the other machine and refused to divulge his name which was secured, however, through his license plate, and arrest and prosecution will likely follow.

The accident took place at a bad turn in the road where caution is always necessary and Mr. Warfield was said to have been proceeding slowly.

Culprit Should Be Punished.

If the facts are as stated, too much stress cannot be laid on the necessity of making an example of any man who holds safety and life so lightly.

Two negroes were working on a job where, the day before, there had been three. The absent one was a preacher as well as a workman. After some guessing, one said to the other with an air of superior knowledge, "I know whar he is; he's down to your house with your wife right now."

"He'd better not be down to my house with my wife," shouted the other. "If I ever ketch that nigger down to my house with my wife I'll run him—I'll run that nigger just as long as he can find anything to step on."

IN CITY HOSPITAL

Friends of Mrs. C. B. Reeves, of Lakeport, and this city will be sorry to learn Mrs. Reeves found it necessary to submit to a serious operation last week in a bay city hospital. Mrs. Reeves is a twin sister of the late Mayor H. B. Smith and prominently connected here. Many friends are hoping for good news from Mrs. Reeves' bedside.

SECRET IS KNOWN

Dr. Leo J. McMahon, whose effervescing good nature and abundant stock of clever stories make him an ideal companion, is back from a month's stay at the Sonoma State Home, where he had been on state dentistry work. Many remarked upon the falling off in flesh observed in Dr. McMahon's case, but it was divulged the lack of ponderosity in Dr. McMahon's physique is not due to dieting, but rather to the fact he has discarded his famous all-wool vest.

Coroner W. F. Ornbaun is home from a trip on matters connected with the Anderson Valley Lumber Co., which took him to Boonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Hiatt were in the city Thursday.

Redwood Highway Is Damaged Many Places

Division Engineer T. A. Bedford, of the State Highway engineering corps located at Willits, is authority for the statement it will cost approximately $100,000 to clear the Redwood highway in Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties as the result of recent slides. There have been 150 different slides, necessitating the removal of approximately 150,000 cubic yards of earth and other material. Three power shovels have been put to work. Unusually heavy rains occurred in Del Norte county. The precipitation for the season at points along the highway is given at 70 inches, or almost six feet, while at Willits the rainfall was 50 inches.

DIED IN SOUTH

News was received here the last of the week of the death of William Doggett, at Grafton. Deceased was a brother of Miss Sadie Doggett, of this city. Miss Doggett, who has been with her brother for almost two months, will return here shortly.

Glenn Johnson, one of the well-known ranchers of the Anderson valley district, was seen about town Thursday.

Gossip and Comment on the Week's Theatrical Events

"FORTY WINKS" HAS A GREAT STAR GALAXY

New Paramount Fun-Maker Assumes The Leading Role

Viola Dana, Theodore Roberts and Raymond Griffith are featured in the principal roles of the Paramount picture, "Forty Winks," which will be at The State Theatre Friday. The picture is an adaptation of David Belasco and Henry C. De Mille's tremendously popular stage farce, "Lord Chumley," adapted to the screen by Bertram Millhauser and directed by Paul Iribe and Frank Urson . The production is a melodramatic mystery-comedy.

Back Once More.

Mr. Roberts, who returned to the screen after an absence of a year in "Locked Doors," is cast as a retired admiral in "Forty Winks." "Admiral" Roberts fits right into his nautical role because for two and a half years in real life he was Captain Roberts, commanding a schooner plying out of San Francisco. Miss Dana plays his daughter, in love with Chumley, a titled English gentleman. Other big names in the cast include Cyril Chadwick, William Boyd, as the young naval lieutenant who loses a set of coast defense plans and starts all the rumpus, and Anna May Wong. Both Chadwick and Miss Wong have prominent roles in "Peter Pan." It is Griffith who furnishes most of the fun in the picture. Remember him in "Changing Husbands" and "Miss Bluebeard"? A scream! And with Theodore Roberts, "the grand old man of the screen," back once again, cigar and all!

"Two Shall Be Born"

"Two Shall Be Born" will be the attraction at The State Theatre Thursday. It is an adaptation of Marie Conway Oemler's popular novel of the same name. The story treats of the lives of a girl in The Prague, sent to America on a diplomatic mission, and the son of a New York financier. Around these two is woven a plot full of adventure, romance and dramatic situations. The cast includes Jane Novak, Kenneth Harlan, Sigrid Holmquist, Fuller Mellish, Frank Sheridan, Catherine Evans, Blanche Craig, Joseph Burke, Walter James and Zyllah Inez Shannon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Bent and Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Boring motored through Lake county Sunday.

HARRY CAREY FINE IN "ROARING RAILS"

Appealing, Convincing Part Is Played By A Splendid Actor

There's no stopping Harry Carey! He's fast achieving the greatest popularity of any screen Westerner. Certainly "Roaring Rails," his new Hunt Stromberg production, which has one day's engagement at The State Theatre Saturday will boost him still farther. "Roaring Rails" is a splendid example of what entertainment should be. We have had so many costume spectacles, so many sex dreams, so many society "bunring youth" pictures, that when an honest, wholesome melodrama comes along it stands out like a rose in a garden of weeds.

Lots of Action.

There are more thrills than you usually encounter in half a dozen action dramas. And, best of all, the whole plot seems plausible and holds your interest in a vice-like grip every moment.

Not only does Harry Carey prove his versatility by his portrayal of a totally different role from anything he has had heretofore, but he establishes himself as an actor of unusual appeal. There are scenes between him and little Frankie Darro that are masterpieces of blending humor and pathos. And as the brave locomotive engineer he makes such a convincing figure that anyone in the audience would be quite willing to entrust their lives in his care. Edith Roberts is an adorable heroine, while Wallace MacDonald and Frank Hegney are outstanding villians. Tom Forman's direction possesses vigor and remarkable depth of feeling, and the scenes—actually photographed in northern Oregon—are different and extremely beautiful.

"Roaring Rails" is an ideal entertainment the whole family will enjoy.

ALBERT PETERSON IS A WINNER OVER COAST

Local Lad Defeats All Opponents In School Telephone Contest

Albert Peterson, the 17-year-old Ukiah high school student who recently won first honors in an essay contest put on by the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., won additional honors this week when his essay ranked first among the hundreds offered in the coast division of the telephone company which includes all the coast territory between San Luis Obispo and the Oregon-California line.

Proud Of Boy.

The second prize of $10 was presented the young man this week. Naturally the teachers and friends of the lad are proud of the splendid showing made by him, which reflects great credit on the school as well. When one stops to consider how many schools entered in the contest it is very gratifying to have the honors go to a Ukiah lad. Albert Peterson is a student in the commercial department of the school, and Miss Shirley Perry is the teacher in charge of the commercial geography class which competed in the contest.

"THE GOLDFISH" IS A TALE OF PURE FUN

Constance Tlamadge Is Given Wide Width Of Range To Act In

Comes once again Miss Constance Talmadge at her very best in the sort of comedy that is ideally suited to her talents—comedy of the liveliest description with plenty of opportunity for the star's unusual talents. We believe "The Goldfish," which opened at The State Theatre, is the very best comedy in which the star has appeared for some time, and one of the best she has ever made.

Miss Talmadge has the role of a piano-picker in a Coney Island dance hall . However, by judiciously marrying and re-marrying she climbs the ladder of success until she attains a summer home in Newport, a town house on Fifth Avenue, a private yacht and a fleet of motor cars. But with success achieved, she finds she is unhappy, and that, after all, she still loves her old sweetheart and first husband, the Coney Island song plugger. The song plugger, played by Jack Mulhall, although he has been divorced by the ambitious Constance, doesn't lie down and die. No, indeed! Instead, determines to make good on his own account. And he does. In the picture, Constance has four husbands and two other would-be husbands who are dropped in most amusing style. If you like Miss Talmadge in her type of the saucy, modern flapper, then you will not miss this one. We can assure you there are enough laughs to satisfy anyone, and the theme is right up to the minute. As to the goldfish, well we will hold that in reserve, as we do not wish to spoil the surprise for you. Besides Miss Talmadge and Jack Mulhall there is an excellent cast, every member of which adds their quota of fun to the piece.

AN UNUSUALLY FINE CONCERT IS PROVIDED

Through J. W. Eversole Co. Famous Musicians Will Appear Here

Betsy Lane Shepherd, gifted American soprano, will appear in a recital at The State Theatre, Tuesday evening, March 31, in connection with the regular film program. Miss Shepherd will be accompanied by Jacques Glockner, noted cellist, and the attraction is brought here by J. W. Eversole & Co., agents for the Edison phonographs. Miss Shepherd is said to be a singer whose winning personality, clear expression and talented interpretation wins her audience at once. The wide range of her voice encompasses either dramatic or coloratura roles with equal facility and art.

THIRD ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE WAS FATAL

Demented Foreigner Is Found Hanging Near Russian River

Baptista Andreola, an Italian laborer residing at Willits, committed suicide Friday by hanging himself from a tree over the river on the F. O. Scott ranch, north of the city.

Was Going Home.

According to the evidence brought out at the coroner's inquest the man had been held under observation here since a previous attempt at suicide at Willits a few weeks ago. He had been released from custody Friday and started to walk to Willits, where he had been employed at the round house of the Northwestern Pacific railway. He followed the railroad track to the Scott place where footsteps in the loose soil showed he took a direct course to the river. The body was found by J. T. Scott, the 19-year-old son of F. O. Scott, who was working in the field and who went to the river to get a drink.

The dead man had accomplished his suicidal purpose by fastening his leather belt about his neck, attaching a piece of wire to it and throwing it over the limb of a tree hanging over the water. He climbed out on the limb from a high bank nearby. In order to get to the body the coroner's helpers had to wade the river for a considerable distance.

Fine Span For Pudding Creek Is Provided For

The board of supervisors, at their meeting last week, set aside the sum of $15,000 to Chas. Perkins for the construction of a new bridge across Pudding Creek to replace the old structure built years ago by Arthur Biggers, which by reason of long service, increased travel and heavy trucks, has become weakened. The new bridge will be a substantial structure, with a footwalk for the comfort and safety of pedestrians and will be built by day labor. It will span the stream to the west of the old bridge.

LOST THE CASE

The appeal to the appellate court in the case of William Nelson, in which the state, through Mannon & Mannon and District Attorney Hurley sought to compel Mr. Nelson to make provision for the care of an illegitimate child, was decided in favor of the state. Chas. Kasch was the attorney for Mr. Nelson.

LONGVALE PLANS BIG RODEO EARLY IN MAY

Preparations Already Show Real Wild-West Ideas Are Provided

(Special Correspondence of The Press)

LAYTONVILLE, March 23.—A stupendous rodeo will be given sometime in the "merry month of May" on the famous Harrison ranch, now known as the Armstrong ranch, in Long Valley. The superintendent, Charlie Underhill—and he is qualified—will make all the arrangements. The place selected for the three-day entertainment is on the Old Farley Place, under the spreading branches of a grove of white oak trees. No prettier spot could have been chosen; the level fields profuse with wild flowers, the running water and the blue sky and sunshine of a rare May day. There will be all kinds of sports and amusements, bronco-busting and steer and bull-riding contests, boxing and other feats of strength and skill, airplane ascensions; in short, everything that can delight the eye or please the fancy.

Farm Center Meets.

The Long Valley Farm Center (and long may it wave) met at the Farley school house last Monday. Many subjects were discussed. Mr. Herrin, of the Wool Growers Association; Roy Good, superintendent of schools; Mr. Blackman, supervisor of elementary schools, were present. Each of these gentlemen gave a talk on his particular subject. No one "that I hearn tell on" knew what it was all about.

Arthur Brisbane, well-known writer of the Hearst papers and magazines, has been hammering loud and long, urging the government to build a great air fleet, that would fill the air and cloud the sun; then in a subsequent issue—strange, yet true—he completely annihilates his previous arguments in one paragraph by asserting with convincing argument that the world's supply of gasoline would be exhausted inside of five years.

A Ford car will do a great many things on your farm, but it will not let down the bars nor milk the cows neither will it gather the eggs not yet open or close the gates.

Mr. Akey, of San Jose—the minute man in real estate—sold the farm of Ira Branch, in Long Valley, consisting of 20 acres, for $2500. Mr. Akey, Mr. Burke, the buyer, and Ira Branch came up from San Jose on Saturday and the deal was soon concluded and Mr. Burke is now the happy owner of a farm in Long Valley.

The weather has been fine.

Sam Smith, government hunter and trapper, working under the biological survey, has been called to Sonoma county. While here he worked on the Clark and Moore Bros. ranches, where he trapped five coyotes—all killers—and four bobcats. He also had several poison stations out, but found no dead coyotes. Coyotes are getting "few and far between" as Lord Byron said about the trees; and are hard to trap or poison.

C. E. Humbert Sells Big Cloverdale Tract

A real estate transaction involving the sale of 4,221.87 acres of land on The Geysers road, northeast of Cloverdale, for $54,000, was disclosed in papers filed in the Santa Rosa recorder's office. The deal marks the transfer of the large holdings of C. E. Humbert, his wife, Ida H. Humbert, and C. A. Edwards, to Nelson B. McGahan, of Cloverdale, and J. E. Hewston, of Marin county. Four parcels of range land situated on Big Sulphur and Rancheria creeks changed hands in the transaction, which was completed in Cloverdale some time ago. The papers bore internal revenue stamps totaling $54, indicating the amount involved in the sale.

Ed Haehl, prominent rancher of the southern section of the county was here looking after private matters Wednesday last.

Edward LaVilette, of Largo, was a Ukiah visitor Sunday and Monday.

A WOULD-BE SUICIDE SHUDDERS AT TEST

Foreigner Planned To End It All Loses His Courage Finally

Bob Andreola, an Italian laborer who has been working at the Northwestern Pacific roundhouse for the past several months, attempted suicide early Monday morning at the Commercial Hotel, Willits.

Perhaps Unbalanced.

Mr. Andreola had been acting queerly several days, it was said. Sunday he swallowed a bottle of turpentine but recovered from the effects. Early Monday morning he decided to say goodbye to California and slashed his throat with a pocket knife. Evidently the knife was not very sharp or his desire to die left him when he felt the blade cutting, for he did not cut deep enough to do any real damage, says The Willits News.

Badly Gashed Throat.

He cut a gash about three inches long in his neck and then called in a friend to see what he had done. Louis Quarteroni ran up to his room and succeeded in getting the knife away from him, after which Andreola ran down to the railroad yards where his bloody appearance created considerable excitement. The injured man was finally caught and turned over to the authorities, who immediately brought him to Ukiah, where he is being cared for at the county hospital.

ATTENDED CONFERENCE

Rev. L. C. Beasley, pastor of the M. E. church, south, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Obarr were in San Jose last week, where they represented the local church at the annual district conference.

Dave Linn, at one time a resident of Mendocino county and now living in Santa Rosa, was renewing acquaintances in Ukiah recently.

LOOK OUT FOR SELF POISONING

Neglect of the liver results in self-poisoning! Not so quickly, perhaps, but just as surely as if you drank poison out of a bottle. If your liver is not doing its work of helping digestion, eliminating waste from the bowels and purifying the blood, you will always be trouble with sick headaches, nausea, biliousness, bad breath, gas, sour stomach, or constipation.

Cleanse and tone your liver! Put your system in condition so you feel your very best again! Try just a spoonful of Dr. H. S. Thacher's excellent Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals and notice the quick improvement in the way you eat, sleep, look and feel—the return of strength, vigor and energy. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise there will be no cost. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Morris Drug Company and all other leading druggists. •••

RICH CASE QUICKLY DECIDED BY JURORS

Coyote Valley Man Is Liberated Within A Few Minutes

It took less than 15 minutes for a jury in superior court to return a verdict of not guilty in the case of the state against E. L. Rich Thursday last. It was the second trial of the case, a first hearing three weeks ago having resulted in a disagreement, a majority being for acquittal at that time.

Charge Was Weak.

Many then imagined the case would not be retried, as the facts brought out at the first trial plainly indicated the state did not have a case strong enough to warrant the charge being brought up a second time.

Was Ably Defended.

Attorney M. H. Iversen defended Mr. Rich and handled the case to such advantage for his client no circumstance in his favor was not brought out and much of the evidence of the state was badly damaged when Attorney Iversen finished analysing and dissipating it entirely, as he did in various instances, notably when a chemist, brought here from the city to testify regarding the aging of liquors, was turned into a fairly good witness for the accused. The chemist, seemingly had not been fully advised as to the nature of the expert evidence he was sought to provide, as, when interrogated regarding the aging of liquor, merely went on to relate the precautions taken to remove poisonous oils from whiskey, stating the liquor was placed in charred barrels to age. Getting to the evidence before him the chemist was asked to state what the age of the liquid in the glass containers was. The chemist replied they probably were less than one year old. To this extent, only, did the evidence run against the accused man, as shortly afterward on cross-examination by Attorney Iversen, the chemist stated liquor in a glass container would not age and that it was entirely problematical how old the liquor was in the container, if it had been in a glass container since being made.

Had Rule To Go By.

On instructions given by Judge H. L. Preston in the former case the court directed the jurors to remember it was entirely up to the state to show the liquor in question was obtained since the advent of prohibition. At the same time the court also directed the jurors to bear in mind while deliberating on the guilt or innocence of the prisoner, the fact the state could not punish a man for serving liquor to his guests in his own home, if the liquor was obtained in a legal manner.

With this situation before the jury the members had little difficulty in arriving at a verdict.

A Queer Practice.

A boy witness who, seemingly, was greatly alarmed during the first trial, went on the stand the last trial and stated that while in the office of the district attorney just before he testified at the first trial of the case, he had been told by a constable and the prosecuting attorney he would be sent to the reform school, unless he swore he had been directed by the accused man to take a barrel containing some liquor and hide it on the Rich premises.

Verdict Is Well Received.

The verdict in the Rich case was a popular one, not because any particular sympathy is held out for the accused man, but because it establishes a precedent in Mendocino county that homes are immune from molestation in instances like the one which the jury in the Rich case considered.

THE GASOLINE TAX

In response to a telegram from the Legislative Committee of the State Supervisors Association, requesting, in the name of all boards of supervisors, that the Standard Oil Company withdraw its opposition to an increase in gasoline taxation, K. R. Kingsbury, President of the Standard Oil Company, sent the following telegram:

"There has been so much misrepresentation of the attitude of this Company toward proposals to increase gasoline taxation that we are very glad of this opportunity explicitly to state to you and your associates and the organization represented, our policy and our activity in this matter.

"This Company is and always has been a supporter of good roads and in the present situation is not in opposition to the expansion of California's highway system, but only to the proposed method of raising the additional funds said to be necessary.

"We are opposed to any increased taxation of gasoline as a matter of principle. The tax is virtually a sales tax on a product which we sell. The three-cent tax would be a tax of twenty per cent on the wholesale price of gasoline in San Francisco. There is no marketer of any commodity who would not object to a twenty per cent sales tax on his product.

"Believing the tax to be wrong in principle and unfair to our business, this Company some months ago announced its opposition and with all possible candor stated its position as clearly as it knew how—frankly, publicly and openly.

"In its examination of the situation the Company, from its long experience and study of probable future consumption of gasoline, estimated that revenues under present motor taxation laws would yield the sums said to be required for roads, and these facts were made public, not only as an argument against further taxation, but also because good citizenship demands that anyone in possession of important facts regarding a public question should set them forth.

"This Company's activity has not been confined to California. With equal frankness it announced its opposition in Oregon, Washington, Nevada and Arizona where new gasoline taxation has been agitated, as did numerous other interests. The legislatures in these States have adjourned without action except in Nevada.

"Your telegram states that the Company's opposition is so resented that the result will react against it. It is impossible to believe that any company operating in the State of California will, because it ventures frankly to express its opinion of a public proposal, which it believes inimical to its welfare, suffer in official or public esteem, which we are pleased to believe this Company enjoys to a marked degree. We believe our position to be so right and sound from an economic or any other point of view, that we can not renounce it as you request."
